PROPOSALS POR PUBLISHING THE MARYLAND GAZETTE AND

Upon a new and Improved Plan. The Editor of the Maryland Gazette, de signs making a sunsiderable change in the plan and character of his paper. The reasons which induce him to adopt this measure are various, and they shall be briefly

STATE REGISTER.

The Marylane Gazette was established in the waryland Gazette was exactled the year 1745, by one of the ancestors of the present editor. It was preceded in its publication, but by three other papers on this Continen, all of which it has survived. It is therefore at present the oldest particularly. ed. It is therefore at present the oldest paper in America. From the period of its establishment, until the year 1813, it preserved the same character, and the same title; anterior to this period, it was strictly a vehicle of general intelligence—it was not devo ed to the views and objects of any particular party, but its columns were accessible to all. At the commencement of that year (a most momentum, period in the his. year (a most momentons period in the history of our country,) it was deemed necessary to give to it a new character; and the sary to give to it a new character; and the better to designate its future course, an ad ditional title alto; it was henceforward called the Maryland Gazette and Political Intelligencer. At this period great political excitement prevailed, and party spirit raged with uncontrolled violence—our country men were divided into two great parties—the one appropriate, the other condemning the one approving, the other condemning the measures of the general government. Being forced by this state of things to take

Being forced by this state of things to take part in the plant contest of the day the chiprofite the militest deliberation, and with the fallest control on or his under 'standing, resolved to advocate, excusively, that policy which was recommended by the federal party.

If he differed from a major thy of his countrymen, he differed hones:
thy and whether his views and sentiments rity of his countrymen, he direct directly; and whether his views and sentiments were erroneous or not, they were the dictates of the parest-patriotism, and proceeded from an ardent desire to promote, whathe conceived to be, the best interests of his country. But these scenes have passed away—times have changed—Ethe situation of our country is now very different. We are in the full enjoy ment of almost every national blessing—we are not only exempt from the horrors of war, but we are every where blessed with plenty and abundance. Our commerce, our agriculture, and our manu factures are comparatively flourishing—far more so perhaps than in any other quarter of the globe. But above all, the demon of party spirit is now laid, and we trust for ever; the seem of good feelings? has now, we hope, indeed arrived, when the only contest will be, who can do his country most service; and when in appointment to office, the only questions asked will be, Is he homes? It he can be desired. ly: and whether his views and sentiment the only ques ions asked will be. Is he honest? Is he capable? Is he virtuous?" To Mr Monroe puch praise must be accorded for that state of harmony, which has for some time pait pervaded our country—so wise has been the course of policy that he has pursued, that he has satisfied all parties, and lett us nothing to dispute about. So great then has been the change of circumstances which a few years have produced, stances which a few years have produced, not only in our own country, but in Europe also, that the Editor deems it no longer necessary to continue his paper as the advocate of any particular political, party. Its columns will henceforth be open to all who may choose to avail themselves of them, without any other restrictions than requiring decency o language, the avoiding of personalities, and correctness of composition. But it vill be the peculiar object of the Editor to lender his paper subservient tion. But it will be the peculiar object of the Editor to ender his paper subservient to the best interests of his own state—He wishes to male it emphatically a State Paper. By this expression, he means a paper, whose province it will be to uphold and maintain the nonour and dignity of the state—to proude her prosperity by diffusing such infermation with regard to her resources and her means of infernal improvement, a he may he enabled to obtain. As an indication of the future character of As an indication of the future character of his paper, he has given to it the new title of State Register. It will infuture become the repositors of all state documents, and of such other information as may tend to etucidate the history of the state, or proelucidate the history of the state, or pro-mote its improvement and prosperity— Is will also be the object of the Editor to present his patrons with the earliest intel-ligence, foreign or domestic; an he will be particularly careful to devote a deportion of his paper to the interests of Agriculture, Manufacturis, and Domestic Economy.

With this satement of his objects and his which this statement of his objects and his views, the Editor submits his plan to the patronage of the public.—Should it be favoured with their support, he will endeavour not to isappoint the expectation that may be exceed.

If sufficient encouragement be afforded, the paper will be enlarged to an imperial size, and printed with a new type.

Highly Important Hair Restorative and Preservative VEGETABLE CERATE.

The important discovery of a vege able substance, capable of res oring and preserving the Hair, was acciden tally made by an individual who has neither the capacity nor the disfraud,

The riviest reliance may be placed on the efficacy and power of the Ve getable Cerate, not only in restoring and preventing the falling off the lrair. but in producing the greatest lustre and liveliness of it imaginable; and the public may rest assured that its effects will be clearly manifested in the course of a short time, by the re newal of vigorous growth of hair, and by effectually preventing its coming out or falling off. The Vegetable Cerate tends to resusciate and excite the energies of the capillary vessels which constitute those organs that secrete the matter forming the hair; these, like many other organs of the animal body, which have been in the state of dormancy or disease, may be restored to their healty action, and perform all those functions assigned by na-

The proprietor being aware of the numerous specifics palmed on the pub lic, and desirous that the present article may not suffer from false impres sions, rests its merits on the effect it has produced on various persons who have used it, and all that is asked, as it relates to the verity of its effect, is a fair trial.

Elderly people, with bald heads, may rest assured, that by applying a few boxes of the above cerate, their hair will be restored with all its beauty and life.

To prevent imposition, the sale of the Vegetable Cerate will be confined to Dr James Hart, New-York, corner of Broadway and Chambers-streets three doors from Washington, where it will be sold at $1 75.

A liberal deduction will be made to country dealers.
